DEATH OF A CONVICT IN THE INDIANA PENITENTIARY AT JEFFERSONVILLE .- A man 73 years of age died on Friday night last, of an affection of the heart, having performed, on the day previous to his death, his allotted task in apparent good health. He leaves a property valued at $100,000, and was incarcerated for the period of two years for the crime of forgery to the amount of $25! The old chap was miserly the extreme, denying to himself the smallest luxury beyond the prison fare of bread and water and beef's head broth.

Many anecdotes are related of this old scamp, which go to mark him as one of the oddities of his species. At the time of his arrest for the alleged forgery he was tendered counsel, who pledged themselves to clear him of the charge for a fee of $500. To this the old man replied, that, "if convicted, the sentence would only be for two years, and he didn't think he could make his expenses and two hundred and fifty dollars a year out of the penitentiary, and it would cost him nothing to live there, and he would save that much any how!"

This institution of our neighbor's is in a flour-ishing condition, employing at the present time about two hundred and seventy "operatives."

BEAUTIFUL-These nights, and the scenery in our streets. But the most beautiful sight in this vicinity, to our mind, is that from street. The river, in its majesty, just visible—the glancing of the sunbeams on the waves of the passing steamer—the steamer's lights—the lights from a hundred flats above the city—the outline of Corn Island and Tow Head, and a dozen other objects—all combine to make a beautiful view .- Democrat.

What a very striking description of night scenery this is! Just think of it a moment-the river barely visible in the darkness-the glancing of the sunbeams on the waves of the passing steamer-the steamer's lights-and the lights from a hundred flats above the city! We supthe lights of the steamer and the lights of he hundred flats above the city were necessary to enable the persons on board to have a good view of the glancing sunbeams! Our neighbor of the Democrat should turn his attention to painting panoramas.

FINE VEGETABLES .- On Saturday we received from the horticultural exhibition some very remarkable specimens of white Astrachan apples raised by Geo. Heinsohn, cymblins by J. Thatcher, turnips and beets by Geo. Hikes, and pure Neshanoc potatoes by Godfrey Stiltz. All of these specimens are among the largest ever raised in our vicinity. Mr. Hikes used guano in raising his turnips, beets, and other vegetables. He put the guano in trenches, and, for the sake of the experiment, planted the rows of vegetables at right angles with the trenches, so that a portion of them came in contact with the guano while the rest did not; and the former shottook effect in the head of his sister, a girl of were in every instance double the size of the latter-a very conclusive experiment certainly.

ANOTHER STEAMBOAT BURNED .- The Memphis Whig states that the steamer Knoxville, running in the Tennessee river and Memphis trade, took fire Tuesday night last in the Tennessee river, one hundred and tweenty-five miles from Paducah. She was on her downward trip. The boat and a large and valuable cargo were totally destroyed.

A man named Henry Warst was fined last week by the mayor of New Albany for offering two city officers a mug of beer. He took an appeal to the common pleas court, and the jury acquitted him-deciding that it was no violation of the Indiana prohibitory law to offer a glass of beer to a friend.

ANOTHER PRISONER ARRESTED. - Samuel Bryant, alias McCauley, who broke from the jail in this city some weeks ago with other prisoners, was arrested at Cincinnati on Friday and has been brought back. He is charged with burglary.

THE NEWS BY THE HERMANN.-The details of the news brought by the steamship Hermann, though not very important, will nevertheless be found highly interesting, especially that portion relating to the fleet in the Baltic.

The river continues to recede slowly Last evening there were 5 feet 8 inches water in canal. The weather is clear and warm.

At St. Louis, on Thursday, the Mississippi was falling rapidly. Its upper tributaries were all on the decilne. Five feet in the Missouri; four and a half in the Illinois; nine feet on the bars to Cairo. The weather warm and cloudy, with a prospect for rain.

The Nashville Whig, of Saturday, says of the Cumberland river:

The river was swelling yesterday at a tolera-bit risk rate, with 34 feet water on the shoals. Rain fell during most of the day, and it is be-lieved that there have been heavy rains above. River men are most sanguine of a good tide in a day or two.

[For the Lonisville Bulletin.] THE PICTURE.

Yes, these are her own lineaments. Her dear les, these are ner own thesments. Her dea And lovely image glows before me now As perfect as the angel of my dreams E'er painted it npon the shadowy air Of the ealm twilight hour. I never thought The painter's fery heart and skillful hand Could, e'en in inspiration's wildest hour, Work such a strange, bewitching miracle. It is as if some kludly Spirit held A magic mirror between me and her, Reflecting her own self, her living self, In all her angel-beanty to my eyes.

With fire from heaven the ancient Titan touched With fire from heaven the ancient Titan touch a marble status scriptured by the skill Of mortal hand, and it beceame a thing Of life and beanty, joy and love. And thus This pietned image, lighted by a flame From the deep heaven of fancy, seems to comforth from the canvas, a bright thing of life. Oftas I sit and gaze on its screne And gentle face, the dark eyes seem to wake And look with high intelligence in mine; The warm blood finishes on the tandar chash. The warm blood finshes on the tender cheek Like early sunrise on a snow-white cloud; The red lips part, and words of gentleness, Soft as the minstrelsy of twilight winds Among the opening flowers of spring-time, fall Upon my listening ear; a little hand Rests in my own; and the companionship Of dear and by-gone eves is mine once more.

And thou, the dear and gentle prototype of all this imaged loveliness, thou bright
Reality from which these life-like tints
Were breathed on lifeless canvas, thou below'd
Earth-angel in whose living face sweet thought (As ne'er in pletured features) come and go Like swift clond-shadows on a tranquil lake, Thou art to me a treasure of the hoart, A joy, a hope, a memory, and a love. I dearly prize thy imaged face, and yet I needed not thy painted lineaments, The bright, unreal semblance of thyself, To keep thee fresh within my soul, for thou Art deeply mirrored in the crystal fount
Of beauty in my breast. Forever there
I gaze and see thy face. Although my time
With thee has been but brief, there are some hours,
Which pass not with the falling of the sands That count them. They forevermore remain A portion of our lives, bright isles of flowers
In the wide sea of our eternity.
In e'er may press thy hand again in mine
And call thee dear young danghter of my heart,
Yet we perchance shall sometimes meet within
The land of drams where our two souls will make Their own blest landscapes. There our lotty thousy The land or dreams where our two sonis will make Their own blest landscapes. There our lofty thoughts
Will be our stars—our rushing ones our streams— Our musical and gladsome ones our birds. Onr lovely ones our flowers—our fiery ones Our meteors and our lightnings—and our bright And beautiful and holy ones our heaven.

The city is getting moral. We were at the jail vesterday about 3 o'clock, and there had not been a single arrest made since Saturday morning.

NEWS ITEMS.

The yellow fever has made its appear ance in New Orleans. Twenty cases, some of which proved fatal, have been reported. A correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune says there are not five hundred persons in the city liable to take the disease, and infers that it cannot become epidemic.

The Zanesville Courier says a fire broke out at Steubenville on Wednesday night in the back shop of a furniture manufactory, on the corner of Sixth and Market streets, and destroyed the entire block of buildings on the corner. Among the sufferers are Mrs. Blackburn, confectioner, whose loss is about $6,000; Mr. Donaldson, furniture dealer, $3,000: Wm. Nash, merchant, $60,000. There was but little insurance on the property. It is the largest fire with which Steubenville has ever been visited.

A shocking affair occurred yesterday at the corner of Fifteenth and Fitzwater streets. A father and son, named Glass, were amusing themselves by firing at a mark in the yard, with a shot gun. While the son was in the act of eighteen years of age. The girl was still alive this morning, but her recovery is deemed hopeless .- Phil. Bulletin, July 5.

FALL OF A BUILDING-One Man Killed and Two Injured.—About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a four-story brick building at No. 85 Pearl street, near Vine, owned by Chas. Urban, safe manufacturer, fell with a tremendous crash, killing Frederick Klineman and injuring John Kolp and Wm. River, Germans, who were engaged in tearing it down.

The work of removing the old wall was commenced one week ago, and in doing so, a large amount of old mortar and pieces of brick accu-mulated on the third and fourth story floors, the weight of which caused the shoars to give way, and no doubt the building to fall.

THE NEWS BY THE HERMANN. The Hermann left Southampton on the afternoon of the 20th of June, and brings London papers of that day.

Before Sebastopol, June 5.—The cholera has sensibly diminished in the camps before Sebastopol, but it has attacked the Guards and the 31st regiment, near Balaklava, and some of the new batteries as well as the followers of the army in that town.

l am grieved to say that it has fallen heavily on the Sardinian contingent, and that Gen. La Marmora is in great anxiety about it. I am rendering him all the assistance in my power. RAGLAN.

Death of Gen. Alessandro della Marmora .-The Turin correspondent of the London Times writing June 12, says:

The Sardinian Government received a telegraphic dispatch last night from Gen. Alphonso della Marmora, General Commanding-in-chief of the Sardinian expedition, conveying the melancholy intelligence of the death of Gen. Alesandra della Marca of the death of Gen. sandro della Marmora, commanding the second

The Rumor of a Great Battle. - The Paris correspondent of the London Times, writing June 18, 6 P. M., says: Two dispatches were received yesterday. One of them states the loss of the French in the combat of the 7th to be 600 killed and 2,000 wounded; and that sustained by the Russians is estimated by Gen. Pelissier at three times that amount.

The Condition of Sebastopol.—The Berlin correspondent of the London Times writes, June 12th, that the official reports of the state of Sebastopol received in St. Petersburg at the beginning of this month no longer exhibit the same satisfactory picture of things as previous to the last bombardment. The south side of the town has suffered very considerably; a number of houses are piles of ruins, of others only the external walls are distinguishable; the theatre, which is endeared to the Russians by so many recollections, has ceased to exist

The northern portion of the town has by no means suffered so much, but yet there is hardly a house there the walls or roof of which have a noise there the walls or roof of which have not been perforated by grenade, shell, ball, or rocket, or the window panes and frames of which have not been destroyed by fragments of explo-ding shells. The inhabitants of Sebastopol have, however, by no means deserted the town; with few exceptions, they continue to occupy their houses, even though battered.

In the shops and warehouses traffic is represented as being kept up with but little diminution; even the hotels were not shut. The only promenade which is left the fashionable world n those parts is the new boulevard in the neighborhood of Kasarski's monument, from which there is a fine view, on the one side, of the surrounding mountains, with the allied camp, its trenches, and its fortifications; on the other side, over the sea, with the allied fleets keeping ward and watch over the Crimea.

On the northern side steamers and boats are seen all day and all night plying to and from the Catharine harbor, laden with gabions, fascines, balls, shells, powder, and materiel du guer-re of all sorts; while on the landing places, stores of cannon and carriages, mortars, beams, and other artillery materials are piled up.

[Correspondence of the London Times.] Off Cronstadt, June 9.

A Reconnoissance of Cronstadt .- At noon to-A Reconnoissance of Cronstadt.—At noon to-day the Merlin, carrying the French Admiral Penaud and several French and English cap-tains, proceeded to reconnoitre Cronstadt. They were attended by the Dragon, Firefly, and corvette D'Assas. Going first along the north side of the island they approached within 4,000 yards of the blockships lying in the open water between Cronstadt and St. Petersburg.

They consisted of four liners, five frigates.

They consisted of four liners, five frigates, and two corvettes, moored in a line along the three fathom bank, with their broadsides bearing upon the northern passage. Inside these, 14 steam gun-boats lay at anchor, and under the wall of Man-of-War harbor, anchored in three lines, were 24 row gunboats. When the Mer-lin went in so close two of the steam gunboats came out, and one fired a heavy shot at her, but it fell short.

In the Man-of-War harbor were 17 line-ofbattle ships, four of them fully rigged, and the others in progress. Between this harbor and Fort Kronslot were 10 steamers of various sizes, some of them screws, and between Kronslot and Fort Menschikoff two three-deckers are moored bow to bow with their broadsides commanding the only entrance. The island seems full of soldiers, for, besides those quartered in the town and batteries, three large camps were formed on the outside, two on the north and the other on the south side.

Immense new earthworks have been erected this spring; a complete chain of them runs from the Governor's house across the island to the old Kessell Battery, dividing it into halves, one fortified, the other without a gun upon it. Just as the Merliu was returning, and when going about seven knots an hour, a severe shock was felt, as if she had struck upon a sunken pile. It made the ship quiver from stem to stern.

The engines were instantly stopped and reversed, but before she had stern way upon her, another blow ten times more severe than the first, struck her on the starboard bow, just before the paddle-wheel, sensibly lifting her over to port, and making her masts bend and shake as if they would topple down. The Firefly was immediately in the Merlin's wake, and before she could stop, she ran to starboard of the Merlin, and partly turned round, when a tremendous explosion took place under her bows, causing her to stagger, and proving very plainly-that they were over a nest of Professor Jacobi's infernal machines, the existence of which is now beyond a doubt, and also that they are not such very formidable affairs, after all.

They then proceeded carefully until they got into deep water without meeting with any more, and then reconnoitered the South side, getting so near the shore as to witness a sort of the Russian horse artillery, and afterward resent down to examine the Firefly, and not the slightest injury could be detected, but inside the ship almost every bit of crockeryware was broken, and the bulkheads thrown down or dis-

If the information I have received is correct. which I believe it will prove to be, all ideas of attacking either Sweaborg or Cronstadt are abandoned. At the former, the Russians, since last year, have erected no less than 14 additional batteries, some of them mounting as many as 50 guns. The defenses of the latter have been con siderably strengthened, and both are deemed unassailable by naval forces.

The ports of Revel and Riga are of great importance to the enemy, and to wrest them from him would be a step in the right direction, and would show that the most magnificent and powerful fleet which has ever been congregated on the waters had performed some of the important objects of its mission.

In the House of Commons, Sir C. Wood confirmed the murder of the crew of the Cossack's cutter when landing some Russian prisoners at Hango under a flag of truce. He stated that dispatches had been received from Admiral Dundas containing full particulars of the occurrence. Dundas containing full particulars of the occurrence. Some time since her Majesty's ship Cossack took and destroyed some coasting vessels off Hango, and carried off as prisoners the captain of one of the vessels, his son, and another Finnish sailor. Admiral Dundas wishing not to visit with unnecessary severity the trade of the country so long as the communications and supplies between the Gulf of Finland and St. Petershups were interpreted that St. Petersburg were interrupted, directed that the Cossack should put back to Hango and re-store to liberty the persons so captured, together with four others who requested to be put ashore at that place. The Cossack accordingashore at that place. The Cossack accordingly returned for that purpose. A cutter was sent ashore from the ship under the command of Lieut. Geneste, and a flag of truce was displayed half an hour before reaching the jetty.

The officers and prisoners had barely landed when about 300 or 400 Russians came down upon them, and although explanations of their visit was made both in English and Finnish the Russian soldiers said that they did not care for

Russian soldiers said that they did not care for the flag of truce, but that they did not care for the flag of truce, but that they would show how the Russians could fight. About 100 Russian soldiers then immediately fired upon the officers and the Finnish prisoners on the jetty, killing them all, and then fired into the boat until every man fell. They then rushed into the boat, dragged one wounded man out and bayonetted him on the jetty, and retired, leaving five bodies for dead in the boat. One man only was picked up alive by a gig from the Cossack, which was ent to ascertain the cause of the cutter's delay, and from whom these particulars were gained.

Report of the Roebuck Committee.—In the House of Commons, on the night of June 18th, Mr. Roebuck brought up the report of the army-before-Sebastopol committee, which, af-ter being read, was laid on the table and ordered to be printed. The document fills more than eight columns of the London Times. The committee sum up their report as follows:

"Your committee have now adverted to the chief points contained in the replies to above 21,000 questions, and in noticing these various subjects they have divided them under distinct heads, in order fairly to apportion the responsi-

The great debate on Administrative Reform was wound up by Lord Palmerston's accepting the amendment of Sir E. Bulwer Lytton, and thus carrying the House with him in opposition to Mr. Layard. Having thus obtained the aid of the Opposition to defeat Mr. Layard and his followers, Lord Palmerston, with admirable dexterity, turned the tables upon his allies, and, by the aid of those they had just contrived to overthrow, compelled Sir E. Bulwer Lytton and his friends to give up his amendment at the very time when success seemed completely within their grasp.

A very satisfactory piece of experience has just been obtained by the fleet before Cronstadt. Last year there was a great talk of infernal ma-chines having been laid down, which were to blow up our ships when they passed over them, but it seems that the machines and their value have exploded at the same time. Three of them have blown up under the British steamer Mer-lin, while she was reconnoitering before the place, and, although they made a great com-motion, they did no harm to the vessel be, and some displacement of her copper sheathing.

It reviews each stage of the Crimean campaign, and concludes with a hope "that every British army may in future display the same valor, and that none may be reafter be exposed to such sufarmy may in future display the same valor, and that none may hereafter be exposed to such sufferings?—these sufferings, in the opinion of the committee, being attributable to an absence of plain and proper information on the part of the gavernment before the expedition started.

In addition to the interest excited by the ex-tent of the liabilities of the house, the fact that one of the partners, Sir John Dean Paul, occupied an unquestioned position as the head of a section of the religious world, and was treasurer to a large number of societies and charities in connexion with it, causes each new revelation of the delinquencies which have been practised to be regarded with general attention.

To the Editors of the Louisville Bulletin:

A Louisville City Directory is very much eeded, even for the convenience of our own citizens, and especially is it needed by strangers sojourning here and travelers, and those who visit us on business. Allow me to suggest that our enterprising and energetic fellow-citizen, Dr. W. Lee White, could be induced by the ready cooperation of business men to undertake to produce a City Directory, with the facilities which are at his command, we are persuaded he would get up one in all respects reliable and creditable to himself and the city. And if the whole should embrace a general view of the progress of the city in manufactures and the mechanic arts, it would add essentially to its value. Five years have elapsed since the census was taken, and if our city authorities were to appropriate a reasonable sum for that object, he persons employed to take the names of the inhabitants, as they must visit every house in the city, could at the same time ascertain the number of our population. If you think as I do, gentlemen, have the goodness to publish this, and oblige yours,

CIRCUIT COURT .- The most important case disposed of during the present session of the Warren circuit court is that of the Commonwealth against John Dobbs-change of venue from Allen to this county-for the killing of Joseph Crowe. The arguments of the Commonwealth and defence were well conducted. F. Gorin, Underwood & Rogers, W. W. Sale, Grider & Underwood, were attorneys for the defence; and F. G. Harvey, of Russellville; Mr. Thompson, of Munfordsville; and Grider & Loving for the commonwealth,

On Tuesday evening the jury rendered their verdict—two years' imprisonment in the State penitentiary. We understand an effort is being nade for his reprieve by his friends.

THE CITY FATHERS JUGGED .- Quite an interesting and exciting scene presented itself in the circuit court room this morning-the arraignment of the City Council under an attachment for contempt of court. Some time since, from Cronstadt says: as it will be remembered by our readers, Mr. Kean, of the Louisville Hotel, and Mrs. Vacaro made application to the City Council for licenses, in connection with several coffee-houses of the city. The Council refused to grant licenses to any of the applicants. Whereupon a mandamus was issued from the Jefferson circuit court requiring the Council to show cause why they had not granted the license. Upon a full and fair hearing of the cause, the court decided against the Council as to Kean and Vacaro, and sustained the Council as to the coffeehouses. After the decision of the court, the Council declined to obey the mandate by refusing to license Kean and Vacaro.

An order of attachment was then served upon the members of the Council to show cause why they should not be dealt with for contempt of court. One class of Councilmen came in and responded that they were ready and ever had been ready to obey the mandate of the court by issuing the license. As to this class, the rule was discharged. Another class responded that they were not willing to issue the license, but would give the appeal bond required by law in order that the cause might be tested before a higher tribunal, the Court of Appeals.

Further action as to this class was postponed until Thursday morning, and in the meanwhile they could prepare their bonds. The third class refused to issue the license in obedience to the order of the court, but were willing to appeal the case by giving the city bond, not their individual bond. This last class, consisting of Councilmen Riley (President of the Board), Holbrook, Shanks, Gilliss, and Vaughan, and Aldermen Weatherford (President of the Board) and Kave, were ordered to jail to await the further order of the court, or until they were willing to obey its mandate, or give the bond required by the law, in order that the case might be carried to the Court of Appeals.

WESTERN FRUITS .- The present promises to be a most fruitful season, and many new varieties of fruit will come into bearing for the first time in the West, and many of the common kinds of fruit will arrive to a degree of perfection not common among us.

We have been requested by a distinguished pomologist and writer to procure and take notes of all the varieties of fruits as they may ripen during the season, the object being to obtain a full and complete description for the purpose of comparison, and with the view to correct the nomenclature of fruits, which has heretofore been so much confused.

With the view to aid in so laudable a work, we ask the favor of our friends and the friends of horticulture to send us specimens of such fruits as they may cultivate. We should be glad to receive specimens of all of the old as well as the new kinds as near the period of maturity as possible. We would prefer fair average specimens to those that are overgrown, together with the names, as near as they can be ascertained. Such favors will be thankfully received and duly acknowledged.

In order that the specimens may reach their proper destination they should be placed in a package or box and should be directed to the "Agricultural Editor of the Louisville Journal," or, if left at the office, they should be placed in the box intended for articles for the agricultural department of the Weekly Journal.

THE NEWS BY THE LAST STEAMERS .- The N. Y. Journal of Commerce says: "The repulse of the Allies in their assault upon the Redan and Malakoff towers, with a reported heavy loss of officers and men, produced a painful sensation in the city yesterday, and its effect was visible in the decline of stocks. The extent of the calamity is as yet but imperfectly known, but it is not likely that a brave army, flushed with recent victories, would submit to a failure, in a matter of so much importance, until they had done all that men could do, to achieve success, nor until their ranks had been fearfully thinned by the iron hail. The particulars of the affair will be awaited with much interest. It is generally believed that in proportion to the extent of the disaster is the prospect of peace diminished."

NEW PATENTS .- In the list of patent claims issued from the U.S. Patent-Office for the week ending June 29, 1855, were two to John H. Manny, of Rockford, Ill., for improvements in his celebrated grass and grain harvesters, making the fourteenth patent granted to Mr. Manny for his machines. Including the above, there were nine patents issued in the same week on agricultural implements and machines.

The number of emigrants who have arrived in New York for the first six months of the year 1855 was 69,476, of which 26,824 were Germans and 22,801 were Irish. The number arrived during the same time in 1854 was 134,-751 and in 1853 125,617.

Population of the State of New York .- Comparing the figures already made by the census marshals with those of 1850, the Albany Argus estimates the population of that State at four

ST. PETERSBURG TO BE ATTACKED .- A COTrespondent of one of the London papers writing

The visit of Admiral Dundas to the vicinity of Cronstact has convinced nautical and naval men well acquainted with the Gulf of Finland that there is no intention of venturing our ships against the stone walls of Cronstadt. There is a safer and much better plan for adoption. There is piles which our admiral examined were put down to prevent access to St. Petersburg. Remove these piles and Constalling Petersburg. move these piles, and Cronstadt is impotent in protecting the capital. Now, it is much easier to raise piles than to drive them down, and that these can be raised no doubt is entertained. THE CROPS IN MASON COUNTY. MAYSLICK, KY., July 9.

GENTLEMEN: The "good time coming," so oft invoked and predicted about, bas at last arrived and taken my its abode on the rich and prolific soil of Kentucky. The alarmists are restored to conrage—the creakers are silenced. The formers, the great basis of all preoperity, are in high spirits. The wheat crop in Northern Kentucky is safe. No blight, no rust, no shrinkage, but plump, excellent, abundant. The weather is just such as the farmers would speak for if they had the selection to make. A finer stand of corn was never seen by "the oldest inhabitant." The hemp is thick, tall, and luxuriant. The barley, rye, and oat crops promise more than an average yield. The tobacco plants are thrifty, while every variety of grass is doing as well as could be desired. The orchards are bowed down with their fruitful burdens; peaches, apples, cherries, plums, and damsons are growing in untoid sufficiency. An unnaually heavy crop of potatocs has been planted, and indestions favor the belief that the produce will be larger than for years. MAYSLICK, KY., July 9.

There can be no famine in the land, nor an approximation thereto, while heaven smiles so propitiously. Nature, in a munificant mood, has literally emptied her golden cornucopia upon our devoted heads.

INAUGURATION OF THE CLAY MONUMENT AT Pottsville, PA.—The seventy-eighth anniversary of American independence was fitly chosen for the inauguration ceremonies of the Monument, which has been erected in honor of Henry Clay at the borough of Pottsville. The statue has been erected on Sharp mountain, slightly off the main street of the borough, the hill forming the barrier of the Schuylkill coal region. It overlooks, from its commanding eminence, the whole valley in which Pottsville is situated, and in one direction the view from the base of the column stretches out indefinitely over the tops of some of the lesser coal and iron filled hills.

The following description of the column ap-peared in the Pottsville Miners' Journal, and is perfectly accurate:

The iron column, of Doric architecture, rested upon a substantial granite base, of two steps, the whole resting upon a terraced walk 9 feet wide, of conglomerate stone. The entire stone work composing the base of the column is 15 feet in height, and is composed of material taken from our own mountains. The column, which was designed by Mr. Frank Hewson, was cast in sections, to the number of eight. section is 5 feet 3 inches in height and rests upon its fellow beneath on inside flanges, bolted firmly together. The total height of the cast iron portion of the column is 51 feet; the extreme height from the lower portion of the base, 66 feet; height of steps of base above sidewalk in Centre steet, 73 feet; total height from Centre street side walk to foot of statue, 124 feet. The total weight of the castings (the column statue) of the monument is 451 On Saturday last, the column was ready to receive the statue, and Mr. John Temple, by the aid of 12 mules, succeeded in dragging the pon-derous figure up the steep ascent necessary to reach the column, and on Tuesday, Mr. Walters Chillson, the builder of the monument, after consuming one hour and 50 minutes in raising it, placed the masterly representation of the deceased statesman on its lofty pedestal, amid the booming of cannon, and the cheering of a large crowd assembled in the vicinity. The statue was at first placed facing the East; but it being discovered that a Northerly facing, that is towards Pottsville, would be more effective, the following day the judicious change was made.

The statue, which is fifteen feet in height and weighs between seven and eight tons, is the work of Mr. Robert Wood, of Philadelphia, and notwithstanding it is the first colossal iron casting of the description ever executed in this country is remarkably fine both in form and fea-ture. The features of the statue are lifelike and expressive, and can be easily recognized as a correct representation of Mr. Clay's face, even from the depot of the Reading railroad company, several hundred feet distant.

The attitude is one which was habitual with Mr. Clay when delivering a speech, and even were not the face as much like the great statesman as it is, the attitude would be recognized by all who have ever had the pleasure of hearing him address an audience.

The total cost of this is only between $7,000 and $8,000. On the base of the column will be placed three separate inscriptions, which have been cut on blocks of Pennsylvania marble.

The following is the inscription facing north:

HENRY CLAY,

BORN In Hanover County, Virginia, April 12, 1777. DIED In Washington, District of Columbia, June 29,

On the east:

IN HONOR OF HENRY CLAY, This Monument is erected by the Citizens Schuylkill County, and bequeathed to their Children— A RECOAD OF GRATITUDE

For his illustrious services which brought peace, prosperity, and glory to his country—
A TRIBUTE OF ADMIRATION the virtues which adorned a useful life, and and won for his imperishable name, the respect and affection of mankind.

the N. Y. Times, writing from London, furnishes the following agreeable gossip:

It is this desire for "shopping" to which the Queen's frequent visits to the Crystal Palace and some other places of public resort may be attributed to. Her Majesty is but a woman after all, and, if appearances may be relied upon, seems to be tired of being ever and always a queen. Last Monday evening, she took her husband and two of her children to the seventh concert of the Philharmonic Society, in Hanover Square rooms, and did actually not use the royal box, but occupied a seat in front of the orchestra, as if to say—"please let me enjoy myself at my ease and show my dress as any other lady." And so she did; and people were by this occasion enabled to see that the Princess Royal has a hair-dress a l'imperatrice, and that "her Majesty looks, after all, wonderfully well." The concert itself had a good programme, well but not brilliantly executed.

There is in Regent street a silversmith whose show-case contains a new article of table ornament. It is a handle, something like a harness, which, put upon a bottle of champagne, enables you or your servants to fill the glass of your guest without the inconvenience of holding the bottle in your hand. I beg your pardon for thus making known an invention which must, of course, shock the feelings of your wine-shy readers. I would not have done so but for the circumstance that this patented handle is called "Palmerston, or the judicious bottle-holder." It is, as before stated, meant for bottles of champagne, but then it may be used, I have no doubt, also for water-bottles, and so there is no harm in having noticed it. Being on the subject, I may just as well tell you that the "Maine-liquor law" has been spoken of lately more than at any former time. The meeting more than at any former time. held some time ago at Exeter Hall has been no ticed by all the papers, and I am sorry to say they all laughed at it immeasurably. The idea that an "Englishman's castle" should ever be forced by a policeman smelling spirits is scorned as preposterous. These people are, I am afraid, lost to all water. The "trial" at New York 1s,

"Well, sir," said I the other day to a gentleman whom I dined with, "and if it should prove successful, in spite of your prognostications to the contrary, what will you do then?"

"Why, my dear sir, "was the reply, "I shall ask you to give me the pleasure of dining with me, in order that we might take a good glass of wine for the health and long life of the Maineliquor law in New York." Punch had the audacity to offer the following: "Motto for the Earl of Harrington, or any of the Maine-liquor law gentlemen—Maine's insana in corpore sano.

Miss Nightingale is coming home. She will receive many an homage, and none unmerited. There is much talk in private circles about the uestion whether the English exhibitors in the Palace of Industry at Paris are or not right to cover up their goods on Sundays. We stated the other day that the little steamer James Watt was sunk near the mouth of Wabash. The Evansville Enquirer gives the following particulars of the accident:

THE ORAL DISCUSSION between the Most Rev. Archibishop Hughes and the Rev. John Breckinridge, D. D., on the question "Is the Roman Catholie Religion, in any or in all lits Principles or Doctrines, opposed to Civil or Religious Liberty?" and of the question "Is the Presbyterian Religion. In any or in all its Principles or Doctrines, opposed to Civil or Religious Liberty?" has just been rescrived.

The frequent calls which we have had for this work (which has been ont of print for several years) have induced as to make such arrangements with the owner of the copyright as will enable us to furnish it to the trade and others at very reasonable rates.

This is a very useful book for politicians, as it disensess in a masterly manner all the points of the Catholie doctrins and disciplins, which are just now creating so much axitement.
